DOWLER REELECTED; WATTERS WINS

OHIOANS VOTE VETERANS' PAY IN BIG SWEEP

Republicans in Fourth District Elect G.O.P. Representative to Congress.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5—Ohioans overwhelmingly voted a $300,000,000 bonus for World War II veterans in yesterday's elections, while residents of the fourth congressional district elected another Republican to represent them.

The voters also, on the basis of incomplete returns, approved a constitutional amendment specifying that revenue from gasoline and auto license should be used only for highway and street improvements.

The congressional election saw Republican William M. McCulloch of Piqua, former speaker of the Ohio house, win over Democrat Joseph B. Quatman of Lima by 7,248 votes.

Complete unofficial returns from the 412 percincts in the six-county district in northwestern Ohio gave:

McCulloch 42,891, Quatman 34,643.

The contest was for the vacancy created by fifth-term resignation of Robert F. Jones of Lima during his fifth term to become a member of the federal communications commission.

Judges Amendment Favored

A proposal to add the governor and state treasurer to the three-member sinking fund commission, which will administer the bonus, encountered heavy going but a fourth constitutional amendment to increase probate judges' terms from four to six years appeared safe.

Only a bare majority is needed to change the state constitution.

Battles for control of municipal governments, townships and election board offices as well as local option, bond issue and tax levy contests contributed to the heavy "off year" balloting despite rainy weather.

The veterans' bonus, placed on the ballot by the state legislature, piled up better than a three-to-one favorable vote in slow tabulations.

Bonus Has Big Lead

Totals for 7,498 of the state's 9,386 polling places reported by the secretary of state were:

Bonus—For 1,123,971; Against 365,074.

Restrict use of gasoline and auto tag taxes — for 774,730; against 500,719.

Enlarge sinking fund commission—for 582,093; against 568,047.

When the secretary of state's office closed at 4 a. m. after reporting a number of elections boards returns were complete for 74 of Ohio's 88 counties.

Huron county said the count in one of its 55 precincts was delayed because a local option contest generated so much interest ballots twice were exhausted and about 100 voters were in line at the 6:30 p. m. closing time.

Bonus Payment Scheduled

Veterans will start receiving their bonuses in about four months, administration officials have estimated.

They will be paid at the rate of $10 for each month of domestic service and $15 for foreign duty between Dec. 7, 1941, and Sept. 2, 1945, to a maximum of $400, regardless of rank. Approximately 900,000 veterans are eligible.

The state can issue up to $300,000,000 in bonds to make the payments. Bonds will be retired in 15 years by taking $12,000,000 annually from the seate's general revenue fund and making up the difference with an extra levy on real estate, estimated at $3.34 a year for each $5,000 of assessed valuation.

The legislature also has set aside $25,000,000 in state revenues to help pay the bonuses.

First Hughes Witness Tells Of 'Pressure" on Contract

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—Charles E. Wilson testified today "outside pressure" was exerted against the war production board in 1943 to prevent cancellation of Howard Hughes' contract to build the world's largest flying boat.

Questioned by Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich) of a senate war investigation subcommittee, Wilson said Henry J. Kaiser was one of those who brought such "pressure."

Wilson, who headed the wartime aircraft production board, was the first witness as the committee resumed hearings, interrupted last August, into Hughes' $40,000,000 worth of contracts to build the flying boat and photo reconnaissance planes.

Before Wilson took the witness stand, Ferguson said the committee is seeking to determine any "deficiencies in certain procurement procedures" that brought about failure to produce flyable planes for use during the war.

"Notwithstanding the substantial expenditures of government funds and the diversion of industrial facilities and manpower involved in these projects, during the war years, no flyable planes were completed for use during the war," Ferguson said.

To date, Chairman Ferguson said the hearings "suggest that both the large flying boat and the photo reconnaissance plane projects did involve departures from normal wartime procurement channels."

CRASH KILLS TRUCK DRIVER

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, Nov. 5—A semi-tractor and trailer owned by Merchant Freight Inc. of Terre Haute, Ind., and loaded with oleomargarine, was struck by a west bound freight at the New York Central crossing on East Main street at 2:40 a. m. today instantly killing the driver Hershell R. Jones, 27, of Terre Haute, a World War II veteran. He suffered a skull fracture and his body was reported by Crestline police to have been badly mangled.

The trailer and its contents was struck almost immediately following the first crash by an east-bound train. The tractor and trailer were carried down the track. Both caught fire and then set fire to a nearby box car. Both fire departments from Crestline answered the call.

The westbound engine was No. 2934 with E. P. Brand as the engineer and J. Van Riper as fireman. They are thought to be a crew from Bellefontaine.

The crossing is protected by red flasher lights and police say they were working at the time of the crash.

Mr. Jones is married but it is not known whether there are any other survivors. The body was taken to the Garverick funeral home and is being sent to Terre Haute today.

VOTERS AGAIN HIT BRITISH GOVERNMENT

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 5 — Scottish voters handed Britain's ruling labor party another jolting setback in municipal elections yesterday.

With about 95 per cent of the results tabulated, the laborites had dropped a net of 62 seats, losing control of five councils to their opponents, barely hanging on to industrial Glasgow and winning the upper hand in two small cities—Musselburgh and Selkirk.

With results nearly complete, the Laborites had dropped a net of 65 seats, losing 77 and winning 12 new seats.

The results continued, in a less drastic way, the trend away from socialism markedly demonstrated by a conservative landslide in last weekend's English and Welsh balloting for borough councilmen.

Election campaigning in Scotland was less exciting than south of the border, reaching its peak in Glasgow.

There the Laborites lost three seats but clung to a two-vote majority among the 114 elected councilmen.

As in the English and Welsh local elections, only one-third of the seats were at stake.

Committee Rejects Soviet Korean Demand

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 5—The political committee of the United Nations assembly by a vote of 20 to 6 today rejected a Soviet demand for withdrawal of American and Russian troops from Korea by next Jan. 1.

Soviet deputy foreign minister Andrei A. Gromyko announced immediately after this defeat Russia would not participate in voting on Secretary of State Marshall's proposal for UN-supervised elections in Korea before March 31.

This was interpreted as meaning Russia refused to serve on the special UN observer commission which the political committee agreed to set up last week as the agency for helping establish an independent government in Korea.

G.O.P. CONTINUES PHILADELPHIA RULE

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5—The Republican party's 63-year control of Philadelphia, site of the 1948 Republican and Democratic conventions, remained intact today with the reelection of Mayor Bernard Samuel.

In other mayorality contests, six smaller Pennsylvania cities returned to the Democratic fold and one switched to Republican.

Philadelphia had not had a Democratic mayor since 1884 although President Roosevelt carried the city in 1936, 1940 and 1944.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 5—Indiana elected a Republican congressman yesterday but the Hoosier voters gave the Republicans a setback by electing Democratic mayors in most of the state's biggest cities.

• • •

DETROIT, Nov. 5—Eugene I. Van Antwerp, 58-year-old Detroit city councilman, won his first bid for mayor today by a margin of more than 20,000 votes, defeating Mayor Edward J. Jeffries, who held the office for the CIO unions in Detroit.

• • •

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 5 — A non-partisan display of unanimity among New Jersey voters yesterday gave the state a new constitution to replace its 103-year-old charter.

• • •

BOSTON, Nov. 5—Republicans wrested control of two New England cities long held by the Democrats yesterday, but political pulse-feelers found little to gauge voters' thinking beyond their home towns. While more than two-score Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Connecticut cities voted, the municipal election for the most part were decided on local issues.

FIREMEN AT COLUMBUS VOTED 40-HOUR WEEK

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5—Columbus voters gave their firemen a 40-hour week in yesterday's election and city council, called an emergency meeting for next Monday to see where, if anywhere, they could hire the extra manpower to put it into effect.

The initiative proposal to reduce the firemen's work week from 72 to 40, with no man to work more than eight hours in 24, went over, 47,483 to 30,566.

City officials said that the vote automatically created a shortage of 236 men if present operations were to be maintained, and added a prospective $590,328 to the annual payroll. Only 60 men are now on the city civil service commission's eligible list.

Fire Chief Clarence W. Ogborn and Safety Director C. C. Cole said the voters' order would be put into effect within 48 hours.

RANKIN LAST IN RACE FOR BILBO'S SEAT

By The Associated Press

John A. Stennis, 46-year-old circuit judge who played down the race issue, was pulling away from two close-running opponents early today for the U. S. senate seat of the late Theodore G. Bilbo, Mississippi's "white supremacy" advocate.

Veteran Congressman John E. Rankin, who promised to "out-Bilbo Bilbo" if elected, was running last in the five-man Democratic contest. His house seat was not at stake.

The Mississippi senate race shared interest in yesterday's off-year state and municipal elections with a return of the Kentucky governorship to the Democratic fold after four years of Republican rule at Frankfort.

Clements Easy Winner

Democrats swept back into control in this "border" state by easily electing U. S. Rep. Earle C. Clements as chief executive over Republican State Attorney General Eldon S. Dummit and taking over control of Louisville's board of aldermen. Incumbent Gov. Simeon S. Willis was not eligible to succeed himself.

The Kentucky governorship was top prize in yesterday's two-party scraps. Clements had the support of organized labor because of his vote against the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Otherwise, there was little in the cross country returns to show any "trends" for those interested in trying to figure out the 1948 presidential election.

There were no upsets in three special congressional elections to fill vacancies. Republicans won in normally Republican districts in Indiana and Ohio and a Democrat took a heavily democratic district in Brooklyn.

Congressional Results

The U. S. house winners:

Ralph Harvey, Republican, won over Frank A. Hanley, Democrat, in the Indiana 10th, William M. McCulloch, Republican, defeated Joseph B. Quatman, Democrat, in the Ohio 4th, and Abraham J. Multer, Democrat, beat Victor Rabinowitz, American Labor, and Jacob P. Lefkowitz, Republican, in the New York 14th.

New York and Ohio voters marked a big "okay" on veterans' bonus proposals of $400,000,000 and $300,000,000, respectively.

New Jersey balloters gave thumping approval to a new state constitution to replace one approved 103 years ago, but Kentucky defeated a proposal to call a convention to rewrite its state charter.

WOMAN INJURED IN GUNSHOT ACCIDENT

Mrs. Geo. Swigart, 23, Suffers Shoulder Wound.

Mrs. George Swigart, 23, of Big Island, suffered a gunshot wound in the left shoulder shortly after 3 p. m. Tuesday when the .22 caliber rifle she was handling accidentally discharged.

According to the report made to the sheriff's office Mrs. Swigart was shooting pigeons. The rifle, an automatic, jammed and in attempting to clear the jam Mrs. Swigart had rested the butt of the gun on the porch floor while she picked at the ejector mechanism with a hairpin. A spent cartridge which had jammed in the action suddenly came loose, the action closed and the rifle discharged, the bullet piercing Mrs. Swigart's shoulder.

Alone at the time, Mrs. Swigart ran to the Ohio Bell Telephone sub-station about 100 yards south of the residence at which the accident occurred, to get assistance.

Workers at the station notified authorities and the Boyd and Uncapher ambulance was called to remove Mrs. Swigart to Marion City hospital.

CORY RUBBER CO. VERDICT UPHELD

Court of Appeals Rules in Overtime Pay Suit.

A ruling in favor of the defendant and upholding a verdict returned by a jury in the Marion county common pleas court early in January this year, has been handed down by the Third district court of appeals in the $100,000 judgment suit of Emmitt Smith Jr. and others against Fred C. Cory, doing business as the Cory Rubber Co. of Marion.

In the suit, the first of its kind in the history of the county, the plaintiff, representing former employes of the rubber company, sought compensation for what they termed unpaid overtime for their services. A jury of six men and six women reached a verdict in favor of the defendant in common pleas court Jan. 13 following the three-day trial.

In submitting its findings the court of appeals ruled that the evidence amply supported the verdict of the jury and that the defendant's testimony, supported by the record of payment received in evidence as an exhibit, showed full payment of the plaintiff for his services while in the defendant's employ.

Attorney John H. Clark of Marion represented the defendant and H. M. Rust of Mansfield the plaintiff.

The court of appeals ruled in favor of the plaintiff in the suit of Milo Gast and others against Orrin B. Gast and Burdell Gast appealed from the common pleas court here. The suit involved the location of a line fence on property in Prospect township. The court ruled that the fence was constructed substantially at the same place it had been located for 40 years, thereby establishing the line. The plaintiff was represented by John H. Clark and the firm of Moloney and Kelly represented the defendant.

LEVIES, BONDS WIN IN COUNTY

Seven Proposals Carry; Campbell School Building Authorized.

Unofficial tabulations of the voting in the seven special issues affecting rural areas in Marion county show that all seven passed, but one of them—the bond issue for a new Marion township school building—just squeezed by.

Residents of Marion township outside of the Marion city school district voted for a 2.51 mill levy to finance a new school building, 36-19. A 65% majority was needed to carry the levy and it passed by a scant 65.36%. The levy is to run for 20 years to pay off a $76,000 bond issue to finance a new school to replace Campbell school—the only remaining one-room school in Marion county. A similar proposal was defeated in a previous election.

Montgomery local school district (Meeker) voted for an additional two-mill school levy, 145-68. The levy is to run for three years.

Prospect local school district voted for a six-mill school levy, 466-80. Five of the six mills was a renewal of an existing school levy. The levy is to run for three years.

Green Camp local school district voted to renew three mills and add a mill for a four-mill school levy to run three years. The levy passed, 307-33.

NLRB TOSSES OUT RED OATH CASES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—The national labor relations board paved the way today for throwing out scores or even hundreds of bargaining election cases involving unions whose officers won't take the Taft-Hartley non-Communist oath.

On the heels of a decision to dismiss three petitions by unions of John L. Lewis, CIO President Philip Murray and the CIO Furniture Workers, the board began sifting some 1,000 other cases with a view to similar action where appropriate.

Just how many of these were filed by unions which did not comply with the non-communist provision will not be known until the board reaches the bottom of a pile of affidavits dumped in just before the deadline last Friday midnight.

As a matter of policy, the board said in dismissing the first three cases yesterday, it has to assume that the Taft-Hartley act is constitutional until the courts say otherwise.

Clevelanders Vote For Daylight Saving

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5 — Permanent daylight saving time for Cleveland was approved by a 25,000-vote margin yesterday with final unofficial returns from 1,016 polling places showing 122,986 favorable tallies and 97,203 against the issue.

By The Associated Press

STRIKE THREAT STOPS LINER

By The Associated Press

SOUTHAMPTON, ENG., Nov. 5—A threatened strike of about 100 crew members delayed the sailing of the Queen Mary, 81,000-ton White Star Cunard liner, for New York today. At 3 p. m. (10 a. m., EST) sailing time, the dissidents including engine room and deck hands, were holding a conference in the dock sheds. A short time earlier, the group had voted to strike in support of a nine-day "wildcat" walkout of seamen at Liverpool.

THREE COUNCIL SEATS TAKEN BY DEMOCRATS

Soldier Bonus and Coliseum Win Easily in Record Turnout at Polls.

Marion voters turned out in record numbers for a municipal election yesterday to—

Reelect Harry L. Dowler, Republican, as mayor.

Name a full slate of Republican city officials with the exception of three ward councilmen,

Pass the tax levy for the fairgrounds coliseum by a comfortable margin,

Give the soldiers' bonus amendment a "whopping" majority, and,

Settle a hotly contested race for city school board by returning the three candidates for reelection—E. Paul Bachman, Dr. D. W. Brickley Jr., and J. D. Torrance.

The fairgrounds coliseum, needing only a simple majority, sailed through with a countywide majority of 1,200. Biggest share of the lead came from county precincts, where voters gave it 724 ballots to the good. In the city the majority was 476.

The city and county favored the soldier bonus in about the same ratio that it carried other sections of the state. The vote here was about seven votes in favor to three against.

Final tabulation of the city balloting showing 8,882 votes cast. In the county 4,113 voters visited the polls, also a record number for an off year election. Total vote for the city and county was 12,995.

Veteran election observers here could recall no time in the past when so many voters visited the polls for election of city, village and township officials.

Considered principal factors in the large turnout were the soldier bonus issue, a late but intensive campaign for the coliseum, an active campaign by two candidates for the board of education who lost by narrow margins and a revival of political activity by Democratic voters.

Changes in Council

Democrats, without a city office in the last two years, elected councilmen from the First, Second and Third wards. In the Third ward they defeated a Republican who has served two terms. A Republican incumbent also was defeated in the Second ward but he obtained his seat originally by appointment to fill a vacancy. In the First ward the Democratic winner was named to succeed Republican Harold F. Robinson who moved up to councilman-at-large.

The remainder of the city offices went to Republicans, although final outcome in at least one race, solicitor, was not determined until fairly late in the vote tabulation.

Harry D. Cahill, Republican candidate for reelection as city treasurer, led his party's contested ticket with a total vote of 5,152 and was the only Republican to win a majority of more than 1,000. He defeated Democrat John W. Sekinger by 2,008 votes.

Harry L. Dowler won his third term as mayor by defeating Karl Dune by 806 votes. The third man in the race, Paul G. Simpson, running as an independent, trailed the field, polling 916 votes.

Watters Wins by 921

The race for solicitor between Republican John W. Watters, present assistant solicitor, and Frank C. Gegenheimer, Democrat, saw the lead shift several times until late returns from Republican territory in the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth wards gave Watters a final majority of 921. Despite the tight race in the early stages he polled the highest majority of any Republican with the exception of Treasurer Cahill.

Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen, running unopposed for reelection on a non-partisan ballot, received a complimentary vote of 8,259. Elmer Shaw, unopposed Republican candidate for reelection as city auditor, received a complimentary vote of 5,746.

Republicans took the three council-at-large posts by reelecting one present member and naming two new ones. Reelected was Charles R. Pennisten. Pennisten ran third with first place going to Harold F. Robinson, present First ward councilman. In second place was Pennisten's Hane avenue neighbor, Newton D. Cunningham, a newcomer in politics.

AN N. BUNDESEN

than was formerly needed. And best of all, it points the way toward the prevention of grave organic disorders which often come with advancing age.

The liver is one of the biggest and busiest of vital organs. It performs almost countless tasks and every one of them is so important that failure in any will react on other organs and affect the whole body.

Fatty degeneration of the liver has always been a dread disorder as people reach middle age. Today we realize that this condition, in which large amounts of fat are deposited in the liver, while at the same time the kidneys undergo degeneration, is due to lack of choline, a substance which is part of the vitamin B-complex.

One of the very important amino acids which form the building blocks of protein foods is also related to choline. It is known as methionine and it is from this amino acid that choline is made.

When plenty of food containing methionine is eaten, fat will not be deposited in the liver. If the process has already started, it can be stopped by the giving of choline and methionine, both of which are now available in pure form as medicines.

It is a well-known fact that serious operations have always put a heavy strain on the liver and that anesthetics often damage it at least temporarily. Both these things can now be prevented by giving amino acids before operation and a diet rich in protein afterwards.

Carbon tetrachloride is a very important industrial chemical, used in gasoline and cleaning fluids. Unfortunately, it is also a poison. When inhaled in large quantities, it causes serious liver and kidney damage. Both of these effects of carbon tetrachloride poisoning can now be successfully treated by methionine.

It sometimes happens that to fight the dangerous effects of disease, the doctor must use an almost equally dangerous drug. Arsenic is one of these. Very effective in the disorders for which it is used, it can, nevertheless, have a damaging effect on the liver. Today, arsenic may be used without this risk by the giving of methionine or protein preparations rich in methionine.

There is another liver disorder called infectious hepatitis which is an inflammation produced probably by a virus. A virus is an organism so small that it can pass through a porcelain filter.

Diets of patients with beginning cirrhosis and hepatitis have been supplemented with methionine and choline. Although some reports indicate that the giving of methionine by mouth has not shortened the duration of infectious hepatitis, it may be that the failure to obtain good results has been because the dose used was too small, as is so often the case with many, but not all, of the vitamins.

Of course the amount of methionine to be used in any condition must be determined by the physician. Doses which are too large may cause sickness at the stomach and vomiting.

Today, the story of the effect on the liver and kidneys of certain amino acids is far from complete. A whole new and hopeful field has been opened up and further discoveries will surely follow. Enough has certainly been told, however, to convince every one of us of the absolute necessity of watching our diets to make sure they contain enough of those good simple foods—meat, milk, eggs, cheese—which contain these highly important amino acids.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. M. D.: Will you please tell me what to do to stop a discharge from the ear? I got this ear infection as a result of a severe head cold last summer.

Answer: It is best that a chronic running ear be treated by an ear specialist. A number of methods of treatment are employed, among them being the repeated use of anticeptic preperations, such as iodine powder.

Treatment with ultraviolet light may be helpful in some cases.

DRAMATIC ARTIST PRESENTS PROGRAM

Miss Miriam Marmein Entertains at School.

Greeting her audience as a clown and bidding adieu as a personification of "the eternal feminine," Miss Miriam Marmein showed a great versitility in the numerous characterizations which made up her program of pantomime and dance at Edison Junior High school Tuesday night. The concert was sponsored here by the Business and Professional Women's club.

Costumes, designed by Miss Marmein, further revealed her as a creative artist and together with her dance numbers, all original, and musical accompaniments which she has arranged, justify her description as the "myriad minded Marmein." Lighting effects added also to the idea of each presentation.

The audience was pleased particularly with her graceful interpretation of "The Fountain," in which fancifully, a classical Grecian marble figure "comes alive" an, never moving from its pedistal, reveals the bubbling, leaping "spirit" of the fountain in movements solely of the arms and upper portion of the body. This she was called upon by applause to repeat, and last half of her final number as a coy and cunning "Miss who would like to be a Mrs.", was also repeated for the audience. "And So to Bed," beauty ritual of a glamor girl, brought appreciative laughter from the audience, and of her dramatic interpretations best liked was her "Death of the First Born," from her Biblical motion drama, "Behold the Glory," portraying attempt of a Bethlehem mother to save her infant son from slaughter by soldiers under order of King Herod.

Musical accompaniments were recordings, works of composers including Boulandger, Ravel, Suk, Dukas, Walton, Marmein, Holst, Marmein-Leonard Chopin and Herbert.

ROTARIANS HEAR OHIO U. DIRECTOR

Terms Education "Greatest Business in U. S."

A. C. Gubitz, director of off campus relations and job placements at Ohio university in Athens, was guest speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Marion Rotary club Tuesday at Hotel Harding. His subject was, "Ohio University Today."

He pointed out that the greatest problem confronting Ohio university today concerns the veterans. As a result of the GI Bill of Rights, enrollment in the university increased to such an extent that no longer could Athens provide housing and educational facilities for many of the students. This situation demanded an expansion program. To ease the crisis, branch colleges were set up in Portsmouth, Zanesville and Chillicothe. At these three temporary schools, students are offered freshman and sophomore courses.

A brief outline of the university's plan for four-year training was given by Prof. Gubitz. The first year is devoted to bringing the cultural background of each individual on a par with the other students. Specialization is not allowed until the sophomore and junior years. During the fourth year, the students are counseled and appointments to positions in industry are made.

Prof. Gubitz emphasized the necessity, now more than ever, for well educated persons. He stated that the greatest business in the United States today is education.

Guests at the meeting were Charles E. Rokar of Tulsa, O., John J. Ryan of Terre Haute, Ind., both Rotarians, and W. E. Orcutt of Marion.

CONGRESSMAN SPEAKS AT RESERVE MEETING

Congressman Frederick C. Smith discussed universal military training and other pertinent topics in a talk before members of the Marion Area Chapter of the Reserve Officers association Tuesday night at Hotel Harding.

Only because of Russia's position does this question arise the congressman told his audience. He read a report presented to President Truman by a special committee on universal training and also touched on other timely topics of interest to men of the service. An open forum on international topics followed the talk.

Col. Hubert L. Taylor announced that Ohio now stands second in the United States with a membership of more than 5,000 in the Reserve Officers association. He announced that reserve officers of any branch with an efficiency rating of 40.0 and 24 months of over seas service, may have extended active duty in the state of Ohio (outside his home city) in reserve affairs by applying to the senior instructor of Ohio, Building 110, Fort Hayes, Columbus 18, O. The letter should be addressed to the commanding general of the Second Army.

A dinner preceded the program and business session.

NAVY'S OWN INQUIRY ON OIL SUGGESTED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—Senator Brewster (R-Me) declared today conflicting stories told by two former Navy officers should prompt the Navy to start its own investigation of whether it has been charged excessive prices for Arabian oil.

An inquiry into the subject by the senate war investigating committee which Brewster heads came to a noisy adjournment yesterday with the Maine senator calling testimony by former Navy Commander A. A. MacKrille "a pretty tall story."

MacKrille was in charge of negotiations with the Arabian American Oil Company (ARAMCO) in 1945 which resulted in an agreed price to the Navy of $1.05 a barrel. Brewster contends other government agencies were buying oil then for 84 cents a barrel.

MacKrille acknowledged he discussed the case last Sunday with an official and an attorney for ARAMCO.

SCHOOL LEVY WINS IN RICHWOOD VOTE

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD, Nov. 5 — Harry Gwynn, unopposed candidate for mayor on a non-partisan ticket polled 529 votes in an election marked by the lack of local contests and which saw a 7.5 mill school levy passed by a comfortable margin.

Kenneth Kyle was returned to the office of village clerk, polling 494 votes. Henry Brown was elected village treasurer by the write-in method.

Members of council elected were Fred Allgower, 477, C. W. Swartz, 482, and Wayne Dilzer, 423. Elected to the board of public affairs were T. P. Sieg and C. H. Williamson. Sieg polled 487 votes and Williamson 470.

Kenneth Davis and W. C. Bowen were elected easily to the board of education for the Claiborne Richwood Local school. Davis led the entire local election polling 600 votes while Bowen followed closely with 591.

The school district tax levy was approved by Richwood voters by a margin of better than 200 votes. The levy is a renewal of 2.5 mills plus an additional 5 mills making a total of 7.5 mills. The vote was 571 for and 355 against the levy.

CONSERVANCY AREAS GET COURT RULING

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5—Treasurers of counties comprising conservancy districts are entitled to retain for their own use one per cent of all delinquent conservancy district taxes collected by them, the state supreme court today held.

The court refused to consider a Montgomery county appellate court decision which held Montgomery County Treasurer Chester A. Myers was entitled to the $19,558 which he had retained on the percentage basis for collecting Miami conservancy district taxes from 1933 to 1944.

An action to compel Myers to return the money with interest bringing the total to $28,077 was instituted by Ben Cromwell against the treasurer and his bondsmen. The Montgomery county common pleas court had held that Myers was not entitled to the money, but the appellate court reversed the decision and dismissed the case.

The supreme court's refused to consider Cromwell's appeal thus establishes Treasurer Myers' right to retain the money.

AMISH COURT CASE HEARING ON TODAY

By The Associated Press

WOOSTER, O., Nov. 5—Hearing of a $40,000 damage suit brought by Andrew J. Yoder against Amish church officials whom he charges caused his social ostracism — opens today before Common Pleas Judge Walter J. Hougey.

Yoder claims the defendants, who are officers of the Helmuth district Amish church, caused the Amish "mite" to be carried on against him because of his use of an automobile to transport his invalid child to a doctor. Amish regulations forbid members to own or operate automobiles.

The plaintiff asserts in his petition the "miting" regulation of the church provides for a boycott through which church members will have no associations with him or his family.

Defendants are John W. Helmuth and Emanuel Wengard of Beach City, Isaac I. Miller of Apple Creek and John J. Nisley of Fredericksburg.

The defendants are expected to appear in court without legal counsel because their church prohibits the employment of attorneys.

John G. Winant

THE death of former Ambassador John G. Winant comes as a shock to the nation. Teacher, legislator, governor and diplomat, Mr. Winant discharged his many important assignments conscientiously and most creditably. As the wartime representative at the court of St. James, he was exceptionally popular. Homespun and Lincolnesque in appearance, he was an Englishman's idea of a typical American. Nevertheless, he was an urbane gentleman.

Apparently the strain of the war years was too much for Mr. Winant. His successor as governor of New Hampshire said he should be counted a casualty of World War II. The war years also took their toll away from the fighting fronts.

Breaking the Red Hold

Now, the act's opponents say, right-wing CIO unions are preparing to take untainted locals from Communist-dominated organizations. They say this dissension wouldn't have occurred but for the Taft-Hartley act.

There intra-union differences weren't caused by the law. It surely has brought some of them into the open. In many unions the left- and right-wingers have been struggling for supremacy for a long time. The law's non-Communist affidavit clause has taken the initiative away from Communists and their sympathizers. It is causing dissension within unions only to the extent that it is breaking the Communist hold on some of them.

"Dollarium Trumans"

A NEWSPAPER in Geneva credits a French newspaper in Egypt with observing that the world is suffering from "Dollarium Trumans," a wonderfully apt phrase that must have many an American paragrapher kicking himself because he didn't think of it.

The full course of "Dollarium Trumans" has not yet been entirely charted, although pathologists are now busy on it. However, here is their tentative report: the disease is characterized by a faint pulse, low vitality and a red rash. In its advanced stage it can be checked by large transfusions of American wheat. Convalescent patients need a more varied diet, including heavy machinery.

A Congressman Returns

THE 215 congressmen who have returned from European trips—the word junket isn't being used this year—have been much impressed by evidences of malnutrition and suffering they saw abroad. Some, expressing views at variance with those they held before they went abroad, have issued statements that the need is urgent and that they will support the Marshall plan to the limit.

Even Representative Taber, house appropriations committee chairman and treasury watchdog, is changing. He has viewed Europe as a sponging relative, and when word came from Berlin that he saw no evidences of undernourishment, it appeared he hadn't changed his opinions. But a fuller report on his conclusions doesn't bear that out. Undernourishment can exist without it being apparent to the casual observer.

Taber favors "reasonable cooperation in trying to rebuild the devastated areas of the world within the limits of American capacity to pay." He would exclude only dictatorships. He even favors a "Voice of America" broadcast if "handled in an intelligent way and straightforwardly."

If any proof were needed that travel is broadening, Taber has provided it.

Is There a Highland Underground?

AN unsuspected facet of life in Great Britain comes to light in a speech by Arthur Woodburn, secretary of state for Scotland, who says some Scotsmen still act as if they were at war with England. Speaking before the Scottish council of the Labor party, he said there were evidences of an unhealthy nationalism in Scotland.

That this undercurrent is strong enough for a government officer to take note of it comes as a surprise to Americans who think of the United Kingdom as a compact nation of Welsh, Scotsmen, Ulstermen and Englishmen, old differences forgotten.

Haven't the old Scottish wounds healed yet? Are there still watch fires at night in the Cheviot hills? In the Highlands do they still tell of the great deeds at Culloden, Bannockburn and Killiecrankie? Do the clans still gather in the glens where the pipers skirl "the flowers of the forest" and the chiefs vow fealty to the memory of Robert Bruce?

Another "Willkie" Not Likely

By Mark Sullivan

What Many Modern Playwrights Lack.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW, whose "Man and Superman" after 44 years is still the best play on Broadway, achieves what the modern playwrights call realism without once using one of those nasty, little four-lettered words that bad boys used to write on the fence. Ibsen managed to write realistically, even about venereal disease, without crossing over from good taste to bad. Tolstoy, who drained the dregs of the barrel of life, could stir not only emotions but thought without calling a woman a female dog on the stage. It is all a matter of taste.

It would seem that so many modern playwrights are so lacking in both imagination and language that for power and strength of expression they have nothing to offer but the spectacle of a young and beautiful woman befouling her mouth with the idiom of the barroom. They call that realism. They call that modern. If that is what modernism and realism means, it ought to have its mouth washed out with yellow soap.

Effective English

The genius of Shaw undoubtly was (in 1903, mind you) that he was able to say the most conventional things in the most conventional manner and by sheer strength of ideas and the use of competent English make it sound sufficiently shocking to be attractive. For in "Man and Superman" he reiterates what the human race has always known, namely, that if a girl has set her cap to get a man, she will succeed. He calls it "the life force." In a word, he has to find a fierce biological reason—as Marxians always do—for what is simple human nature. To bolster his argument, he refers us to the bees, when he might better have referred us to every Tom and Jane that ever lived. The bees, of course, do it by regimentation, whereas the Toms and Janes use all the wiles of will and choice. But it comes out that every woman gets her man if she wants him sufficiently to make the effort.

Keeps It Clean

None of which detracts from an extraordinarily good performance of Shaw's masterpiece, somewhat cut, which is always unnecessary, but nevertheless better than anything I had seen by a living author for many years. And he manages to get by without referring at any time to illegitimacy in the language of the bowery. In fact, during what in the movies is call a sequence, the subject of unwedded motherhood is threshed out without a vulgarity.

Thinking it over, I believe I have listened to the entire gamut of pre-adolescent lingo on the stage, except for one word which apparently the modernists have not yet plucked up sufficient courage to use. That, I am sure, will come in due course, as a final example of liberalism, realism and modernity.

I recently saw a vaudevillian leave the stage mumbling to himself while the audiece roared with laughter. No one could hear what he said but they could see him spell out a line of linguistic filth and they thought it very funny. What was funny about it I shall have to discover, because that is what little bad boys have been doing since Caesar was a pup. Perhaps it was funny to see an adult act like a little bad boy. Or maybe they laughed because it would have been impolite not to laugh at a professional funny man.

Worth Preserving

Good taste is something to fight to preserve, for without it liberty becomes license and art turns into vulgarity. Shaw, in spite of his broad ideas and his propaganda for a slow Marxism, which he calls Fabianism, adheres rigidly to good taste. In no play does he become vulgar to achieve emphasis. In no play does he employ indecencies to advertise realism. He keeps the bathroom in its place and the garbage can under the sink. He risks daringly to shock by hurtling controversies, pro and con, at his audience, without opening the drains.

The suggestion that American women adopt polygamy has been received cooly. . . . A shortage of husbands seems to be one the country can bear calmly.

It may be true that there are not enough men to go around among all the girls but they seem to be trying to go around as much as possible.

Meanwhile the federal government has taken another bold step to amass power and prestige. . . . In addition to its holdings of world gold the government now has accumulated 57,330 tons of dried prunes.

The time will come when any nation that wants a dried prune will have to come to us for it. . . . That's when the power of the Comintern will begin to fade.

Incidentally, American Communists have decided not to join the Communist information bureau. . . . The news came as no surprise to Chairman Thomas, who couldn't get any.

Politics and Special Session

By Joseph Alsop

DEMOCRATIC politicians close to national headquarters say privately that President Truman's chances for reelection will depend on what happens in the special session beginning Nov. 17. Every Democrat and every Republican there will have one eye glued on the 1948 election and the other on Europe.

At the present writing, the administration's program is still in the making. Two schools of thought are active in Washington—each seeking presidential approval of its scheme to hold down prices and help Europe, too. Both, however, are united in trying to support President Truman's contention that high prices are not wholly due to shipments to Europe.

OPA "Army" Scattered

The one school includes most of the remnants of the Henderson-Bowles group. They believe in regimentation and more regimentation. They fought to the death for OPA and realize that price control cannot be restored. The 90,000 who were working on price control on July 1, 1946 are scattered. It would be impossible to remobilize this army with all its forms, orders and directors in time to save Europe, even if congress could be induced to approve it. Neither could any general rationing program be imposed without a vest policing bureaucracy. The drift of thinking among the regimenters now is to take a page from Herbert Hoover's ideas expressed early in the war. That is, to go back to price control of basic commodities, such as grain, steel and oil, at the source, leaving prices to processed goods to the dictates of supply and demand.

Another school of thought is represented by the high command of the departments of state and of agriculture. This thought leans toward giving the President power to allocate certain commodities, like grain, steel and some basic raw materials. This power would be extremely doubtful so far as it would apply to the use of grains on the farms themselves. It would be directed mostly toward processors of food and other raw materials, whose power to resist or retaliate vote-wise would be small and who in an election year could be made the scapegoats for an further rise in prices. Then, having pointed a finger at these victims, the government could go into the market and buy for Europe, regardless of prices.

His Probable Choice

It is likely that President Truman will follow the latter course of action, since it offers a clear road of political cause and effect. It would not seriously alienate the farm vote. It would leave the way open to labor to demand higher wages. It would lay blame upon processors who control few votes. It would permit Democrats in 1948 to blame the Republicans for destroying the OPA. And it would implement the Marshall Plan for saving Europe from Communism.

Politically-minded Democrats believe this program will be hard for Republicans to resist in congress. If leaders like Taft and Martin point to the real weaknesses of the Luckman plan, they will be asked to suggest better methods of saving grain. The answer, which is to save grain now being eaten by livestock, will be avoided by Republicans from agricultural states. They will try to avoid antagonizing the farmers who put them in office. They can hardly risk the danger of Communist gains in Europe, which would be ascribed to lack of help. Hence, Democratic politicians hope that by presenting the Republicans with these alternatives they will make Truman's chances of reelection certain or almost certain.

Thus, the concern of the special session will be mostly political and party economic.

Red Report on Akron

Daily Worker Was "Delighted."

WE discover at frequent intervals in this country that one of the reasons we have trouble is because not everybody is going in the same direction.

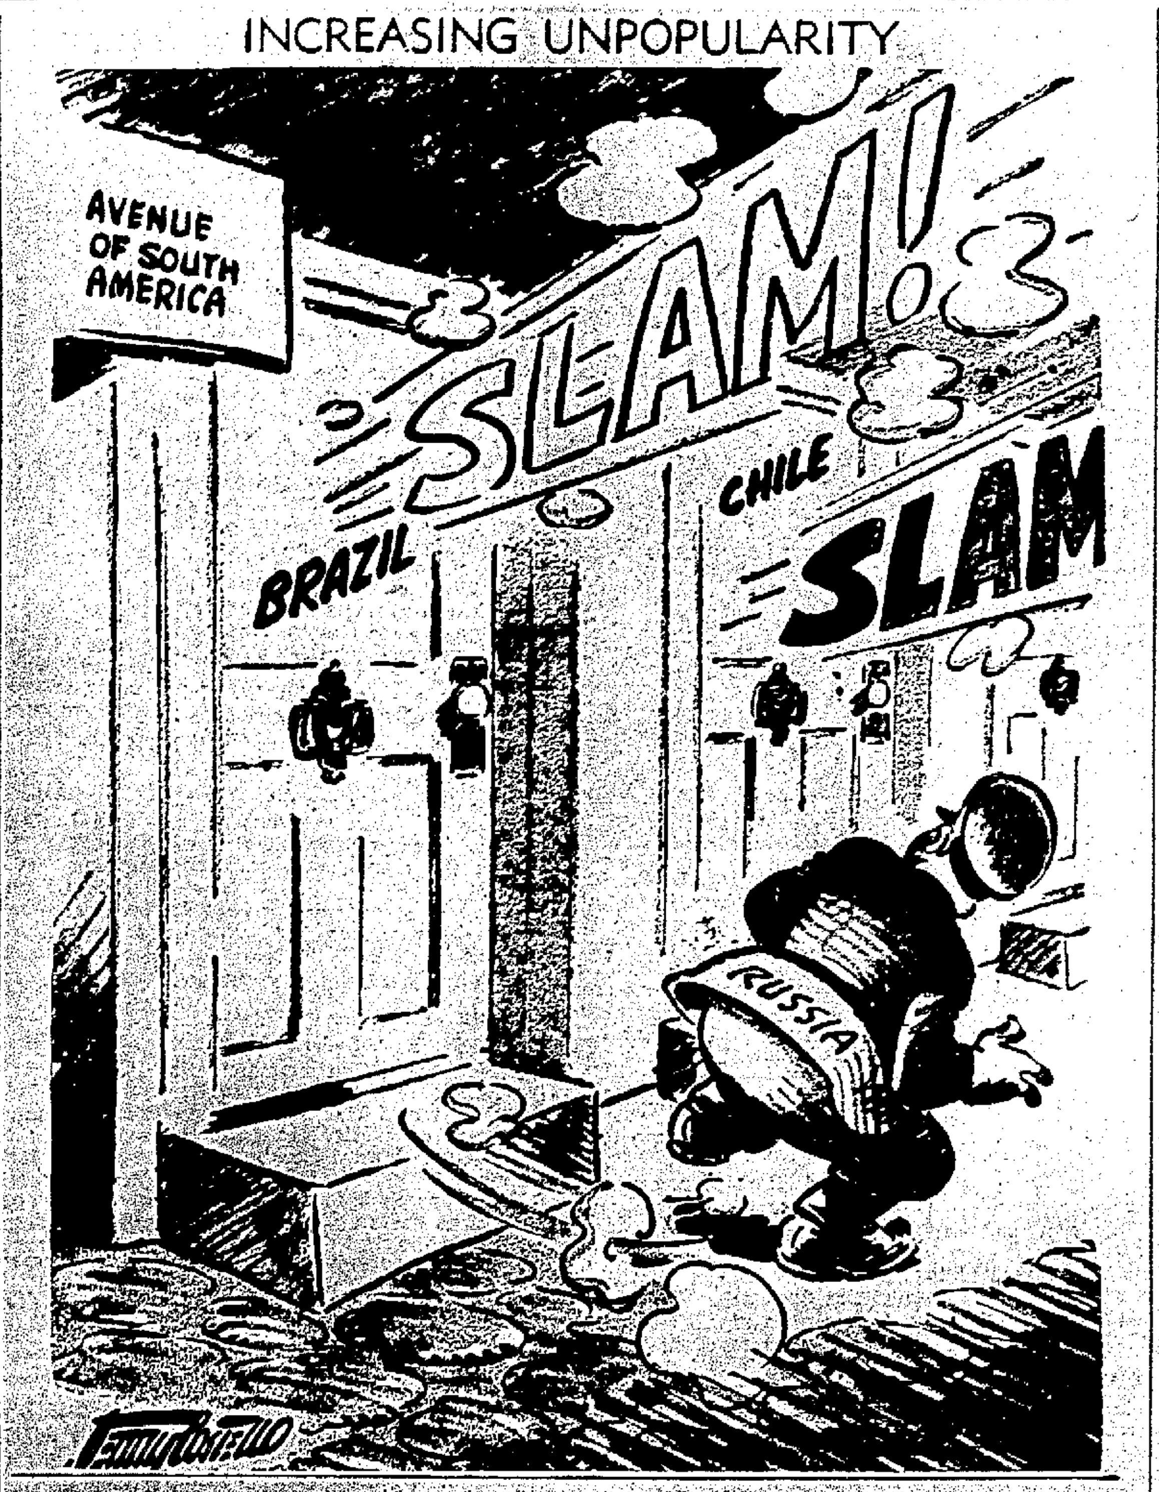
The bulk of the population at present is interested in more production at lower prices so buying power will quit vanishing. But a minority of the population has something else up its sleeve.

It is shocking and leads to bitter disillusionment when Americans "discover" that their way of thinking and living is hateful to someone else. It was shocking to make such a discovery on a certain memorable Sunday in December, 1941. It has been shocking to discover in the last few months that the politicians in the Kremlin have no sympathy with American principles. It is shocking to discover that efficient industrial production is the last thing on earth permissible under the code of certain minority groups strategically situated in American industry.

For example, the Communist Daily Worker published a report on Communists affairs in the rubber unions in Akron. The writer of the report, George Morris, was optimistic about the prospects in Akron. After abusing Senator Taft (standard practice in all CIO and Communist writings) Morris described the unions' efforts to make certain that no further efficiency could be achieved by the four principal comuanies. He also boasted about the pasting given the URWA's president, L. S. Buckmaster, who had suggested compliance with the Taft-Hartley Act. "He was soundly repudiated at the Boston convention, thanks largely to the votes of Akron's big locals in Goodrich, Goodyear, General Tire and others," Morris asserted.

"Outside of one local," he said, "there is little or no red-baiting in the URWA here. Akron, where the first major CIO struggle was fought, is returning to its old militant spirit. The paralyzing influence of Trotzkyites which at one time was serious here, is no longer a big factor . . . . I was delighted to learn of the large number of Communists who are active sparkplugs in the union."

INCREASING UNPOPULARITY



From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, Nov. 5, 1937.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, disregarding an American labor protest against "slumming parties professing to help and to study labor," were proceeding with plans to sail on the liner Bremen the following day for a tour of the United States.

Henry B. Bierly of 141 Homer street, celebrated his 95th birthday anniversary. The celebrant, Marion's oldest Civil war veteran, had all but one of his own teeth, had visited a dentist only once in his life and had never had a filling in his teeth.

Mrs. Julia Gandert was elected president of Whitney Lodge No. 846, Ladies' auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

A thief entered a grocery store operated by Ervin Prettyman on East George street, fled after grabbing a cash drawer lying on the counter. His efforts netted him only 80 pennies and he lost his hat as he ran from the scene.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Nov. 5, 1927.

A score of New England towns were evacuated as flood waters took a death toll of 200 and caused property loss estimated at $50,000,000.

The Marion County Red Cross chapter set its annual roll call drive to start Nov. 9 with a goal of 2,500 members and a fund of $10,000. George B. Knapp was roll call chairman.

Mrs. C. E. Miller of Lima was a guest of Dr. and Mrs. F. R. Mann of South Vine street.

William Hamor and Robert Leake, students at Ohio university, were weekend visitors at the home of Mr. Hamor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamor of Mary street.

Memo for Henry Wallace

By Joseph Alsop

VIENNA

HERE in this great and once lovely city, the Soviet Union has launched upon a venture of economic imperialism of really unparalleled crassness and ruthlessness. Furthermore, the ultimate purpose is to enthrall a civilized, innocent and angrily unwilling people, who stand among the founders of Western civilization.

This is the real meaning of the problem of German assets in Austria about which the experts have already written so much. Since the drama of this strange situation has somehow been lost in transmission, an inexpert explanation seems worth trying.

Very briefly, the Soviets were granted at Potsdam all "German assets" in Austria in part payment of their greedy bill for reparations. Those were the days when even the makers of American policy had not learned from hard experience that it was vain to seek a true settlement with the Soviet Union at this time. Under the delusion which a few still cherish, they granted Stalin this concession among many others. They even did so without spelling out what was granted.

Thereafter, under the guise of taking reparations, the Soviet command here seized control of almost every valuable piece of industrial property in their zone of Austria. Eastern Austria, occupied by the Soviets except for the little quadripartite enclave in Vienna, was the country's chief industrial area.

Didn't Miss Much

Altogether, they took more than 300 industrial plants of all kinds, plus such banks as they could lay their hands on, the Danube Shipping company, the Zistersdorf oil wells and tens of thousands of acres of farm land. Definition of "German assets" was miraculously broad. It even included some property actually American owned, such as the American interest in vital Zistersdorf oil resources.

Nor was this all. Totally incredible as it may seem, the Soviets blandly announced, in the recent fruitless meetings of the Austrian treaty commission, that they were the owners of Austrian roads. The Nazis had constructed autobahnen in Austria after the anschluss. The Soviet negotiaor, Novikov, had the marvelous gall to claim that both these roads and the land underlying them belonged to the Soviet Union. By the same token he laid claim to a number of public buildings. But as a gesture of infinite generosity, he offered to trade off these roads and buildings, against stock in industrial plants which even the Soviets could not call German.

In total, the property thus claimed by the Soviets is valued at between $700 and $800 million. If it remains in their hands, it will give them control of key sectors of the Austrian economy. It is an immense weapon of leverage, both to force Austria into her destined economic place in a Soviet-dominated Danube valley, and in the long run to add political subjection to economic domination. The management of the Soviet properties has been carefully planned for this purpose. Except for the Danube Shipping company and the oil wells, all the industrial plants have been gathered into a single gigantic holding company, U.S.I.V.A. (U.S.I.V.A. might well repay investigation by the American Soviet sympathizers who are always seeing cartels under the bed). And political use is already beginning. In the food riots last May, many of the demonstrators were workmen in Soviet plants given time off for the purpose.

The Soviet Demands

Finally, in order to perpetuate this system, the Soviets are refusing to sign an Austrian treaty until they have been granted economic extraterritoriality in Austria. What they want would have brought the blush to the cheek of the British in the period of the opium war. They insist that their holdings and the "profits" therefrom must be untouchable by the Austrian state. And when asked to define "profits" for the Austrian treaty commission, Novikov blandly declared that his government would tell the Austrian government what the word meant later on.

The Americans and British at Moscow and in the sessions of the treaty commisison firmly rejected any Austrian treaty including this kind of open threat to Austria's independence. Thus there is no treaty and the cruel and crippling occupation continues.

Leading Austrians like Chancellor Figl and Foreign Minister Gruber are ready to risk granting about one-third of the Soviet economic demands in order to terminate the Soviet military occupation.

But neither in the sittings of the treaty commission, nor in the direct but informal Soviet-Austrian talks, have the Soviets shown the slightest sign of abating their demands. Thus far, their position is that of Shylock. Austria is being held to ransom for a Soviet pound of flesh which will kill her if she yields it. Under the circumstances it seems a trifle puzzling that our Henry Wallaces should bleat like so many heifers over the American air bases in the uninhabited wastes of Iceland.

Imagination Test

Picture Lincoln, if you can,
Telling "None of that, my man!
Nobody can question me
If it's on my loyalty!"

Fancy Washington hell bent
To defy his government,
Saying "Queries I hold deadly wrong...
Lemme read a statement long!"

Try to think of Andy Jackson
Shrieking like a howling klaxon
"Not a word from me beseech—
First I wanna make a speech!"

Man O' War

By Truman Twill

This will add to the national gush of sent mentality about the death of Man o' War, mo famous race horse in history. We too are goi to miss him.

This will be in spite of the fact we never sa him run, never made a journey to Farawa Farms in Kentucky's hard-boot country to pa tribute, and never paid tribute to him at a $ window either.

The fact of the matter is, if "Big Red" ha come to see us on a bicycle and addressed us i the Kentucky dialect, we wouldn't have bee able to chew the hay with him intelligently, other than to say we'd heard of him in a vague sort of way.

Our reason for feeling sorry about the death of this most distinguished of all horses has noth ing to do with his accomplishments on the race track, how much money he earned for his owner for lip-licking bettors and touts, or how many colts he sired. We're sorry he finally has die at the age of 30 because for 20 years the fact h was alive has been a comforting thought.

When everything seemed to be going to pieces it always was possible to think about things a Faraway Farms, far away in the blue-grass sec tion, suh, and here is the mint julep you're to tr on for size and Mr. Man o' War he say for you t be good to yourself like him, suh, and you'll liv to be a hundred—like him.

It always was possible to think of that big re horse looking out through the stable door at the meadows and enjoying the scenery, especially on days when the scenery where a fellow hap pened to be wasn't enjoyable—and to remembe that he knew where his next meal was comin from and what was going to happen to him i his old age.

"Big Red" down in ole Kaintucky, Charle Evans Hughes in ole New York and Herbe Hoover in Ole California were three things tha never changed, they just kept going along. The contributed to a sense of stability, somethin seriously lacking in a nation that hasn't had tim to get its roots down.

No matter what might be happening on an given day, Man o' War was comfortable in hi box stall at Faraway Farms, the former chie justice of the United States was still lookin dignified in his distinguished whiskers an Herbert Hoover was still doping out ways an means of putting a chicken in every pot.

This country needs something to take Man o War's place as a symbol of serenity and security He is going to be missed.

Property Taxes

The fraction of property taxes in the nation' total tax bill has decreased markedly during th past 15 years despite record high property ta rates, reports the National Association o Assessing Officers.

Property taxes are still the mainstay of mu nicipal finance and account for about 88 pe cent of local government tax revenues. But loca tax revenues now account for only some 11 pe cent of the nation's tax bill—a decrease from 5 per cent in 1932.

Mostly because of expanding federal taxe the nation's total tax bill increased more tha 500 per cent from 1932 to 1946. Total tax re enues for local government decreased slightl during the same period.

In 1932, the nation's tax bill, including a units of government and all kinds of taxe was 8.15 billion, of which local governmen taxes were 4.72 billion. In 1946, the total ta bill for the nation was 46.1 billion. Taxes fo local government were 4.53 billion.

A recent tax study conducted by city offi cials in Dallas indicates the trend toward de creased emphasis on property taxes in gov ernment finance.

Riggs of 199 Manstone avenue, Sidmouth, Devonshire, England, to Roger Stuart Bowman, chief commissary steward, U. S. Navy, son of Mrs. Owen M. Ingle of Cardington. The marriage took place July 12 at the Parish church in Sidmouth in a traditional old world ceremony performed by the Vicar, the Rev. Preb. E. F. Ball.

A week after the wedding, Navy man Bowman sailed for the United States, and later Mrs. Bowman left England for the U. S., arriving in New York Oct. 21 aboard the Marine Falcon along with 52 other British brides. At present they are spending Navy man Bowman's six weeks' leave with his parents in Cardington, after which they will be at home at 186 Garfield Place in Brooklyn, N. Y.

For the wedding the bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of French white tissis crepe and carried a bouquet of trailing carnations. Bridesmaids were her cousins, Miss Enid Shelston, Miss Hazel Parsons and Miss Shirley Parsons, all gowned in pastel blue and pink satin and carrying mixed bouquets of carnations and English fern.

Best man was Chief Petty Officer W. C. Parsons of the Royal Navy, uncle of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Riggs chose a powder blue dress with navy blue accessories.

Also attending the ceremony were fellow servicemen of the bridegroom and Mr. and Mrs. J. Calfee of London and Mrs. F. Diss of Exeter, also friends of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a gold vanity set, and her gift to him in return was a gold signet ring.

Following the ceremony, the couple spent a week's wedding trip in Kent and Weymouth.

Mrs. Bowman was educated in the Broadclyst schools and was graduated from the Miss Amos Commercial school in Exeter. During the war, she served for two years with the W.V.S. of Britain, and before coming to the States was a secretary with the Gaumont British Film Corporation. Navy man Bowman was graduated from Ashley High school in 1937 and has served nine years with the U. S. Navy.

STATE

Mayor Thomas A. Burke, a Democrat, won a second term. He was opposed by Eliot Ness, Republican.

Columbus and Akron apparently gave safe margins of victory to Republican executives. Mayor James A. Rhodes pulled well ahead of Democrat W. Herbert Dailey in Columbus and Democrat Fred Harter conceded to Mayor Charles E. Slusser at Akron.

Principal interest in Cincinnati was an apparently futile attempt to throw out that city's proportional representation method of electing councilmen. Columbus gave an apparently safe margin to an initiated ordinance putting city firemen on a five-day, 40-hour work week.

Fourth ward—Don R. Biggert (R) won reelection by 78 votes over George L. Conroy (D).

Fifth ward—Herman L. Miller (R) won by 10 votes over Walter E. Haberman (D) and by 340 votes over Vincent R. Clement, present councilman who ran as an independent.

Sixth ward—Clarence N. Sanden (R) won reelection by 338 votes over Ralph W. Solinger (D).

School Board Race

In the race for school board Dr. D. W. Brickley Jr. led the field with E. Paul Bachman and J. D. Torrance taking the two other posts in the order named. The contest, which was not decided until the last few precincts reported, was between Torrance and the two defeated candidates, William E. Gries and Harold D. Runkle. Torrance finally edged Gries by 91 votes and Runkle by 102. The three winners are present members of the board.

Of the other state amendments voters favored the probate court change, rejected the sinking fund proposal and favored the fuel tax amendment by a 1,823 majority.

Interest Ran High

Although there was little pre-election political activity in Marion interest in the outcome of the balloting was high as indicated by the large number of telephone calls received at The Star where a tabulation of results was in progress.

Starting less than an hour after the polls closed, and long before any returns were available, five operators were kept busy almost constantly until about 1 a. m. By that time most contests were fairly well decided and interest tapered off.

The soldiers' bonus and the colisum vied with political contests for interest on the part of Marionites.

U. S. Women Drink Too Much, Says Famous Polish Pianist

MARYLA JONAS . . . "I do not like American woman . . ."

* * *

By ADELAIDE KERR

Associated Press Writer

Maryla Jonas, the Polish pianist whose talent burst on the western musical world like a skyrocket in 1946, sat in her New York hotel living room talking of many things before she left on a United States tour that will take her from coast to coast.

She is a big woman with green eyes, flesh as white as milk and blonde hair swept to the crown of her head in smooth puffs. Her big figure, which she refuses to corset even for concerts ("because I have to feel what I play from my legs up") was dressed in a long, dark, loosely-cinched hostess gown. Her feet were sheathed in scarlet satin mules. On her white hand a big diamond flashed fire.

"In the majority of cases, I do not like American woman," she was saying. "I would like to change American woman. I would like to make less doll. Make read more and don't worry so much. I do not like to see American women drink so much.

"There'll be a decadence of American home if American woman doesn't stop this life of nightclub, relaxation, worry about figure all the time. She takes too much care of herself. She asks too much and she gives nothing."

She glanced out of her window overlooking Central Park, where chic New Yorkers paraded Pekingneses in the September sunshine, frowned and began again:

"Maybe it's not all women's fault. Maybe they haven't been taught right. But it's a big problem and danger. Danger for women themselves. In war American men met European women. They say, a big difference. They liked those European women. It's big danger for the country too. Especially today women must take care of men, of life, of children. It's a big job."

Mme. Jonas delivered all this with a brooding thoughtful air which robbed her words of critical sting.

Mme. Jonas' own career is a saga. She was born of a well-to-do Polish family, began to study the piano at seven, and two years later, played with the Warsaw Philharmonic. There followed a session of study with Paderewski. At 19 Maryla Jonas married Jarze Krol, a Warsaw lawyer, but she continued her music and appeared in a series of successful European concerts. Then came the war and the invasion and bombing of Poland. Miss Jonas, her husband and the members of her family were separated and the pianist was placed in a concentration camp because she refused to play in Berlin. Finally she escaped, walked from Warsaw to Berlin and eventually made her way by plane and boat to Rio de Janeiro, where she learned her husband and most of her family had perished.

For months she refused to touch the piano. Then a musician friend persuaded her to try, and the old magic flowed back into her fingers. After successful South American tours she came, unheralded, to New York, and played her first Carnegie Hall concert in February, 1946, to a handful of audience and a few critics. However, those few heralded her performance with such enthusiasm that her American fame began and a subsequent New York concert established her.

REPORT MADE ON RELIGIOUS CENSUS

800 Homes Visited by Workers Thus Far.

Reports on the religious census under way in Marion, sponsored by Kiwanis club, showed Tuesday night that about 800 homes had been visited by census workers up to that time, Dr. F. G. Nuetzel, chairman of the church committee of the club, stated today. If weather conditions prove better for calling the latter part of the week, it is expected that pace of the campaign will be speeded up considerably, he said.

Completed reports had been turned in by 21 workers by Tuesday night. Individual census takers each have a list of approximately 40 families to visit. The cards on which information is recorded concerning the church attendance or church preference of the families visited, are turned over by the census workers to key workers or a committee composed of wives of Kiwanis members at the Y.M.C.A. for tabulation.

At the close of the campaign an effort will be made to make return visits to homes where families were found to be away on the first visit, Dr. Nuetzel said.

SOYA BEAN "GASSED" FOR EUROPEAN TASTE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—The lowly soya bean is being "gassed" preparatory to coming to the aid of hungry Europe.

At the same time, there is a move on foot to use this gas process to overcome the reported distaste of the American palate and nose for soya products.

The Soya Corp. of America will deliver 3,600,000 pounds of edible soya bean flour to the U. S government in the first quarter of 1948 for distribution for food relief in Europe. The Commodity Credit Corp. will pay the market price, currently about four cents a pound, for the flour.

Using a gas process patented by a Russian who got the idea while a refugee in China, the company says it has elmiminated the odor and taste qualities to which some Americans and Europeans have objected in the past. The bean has long been a staple in the oriental diet

The company recently started producing soya bean oil at the rate of 580,000 pounds a month, which it plans to increase to 1,200,000 pounds by Feb 1. It hopes this product will challenge olive oil on the American table.

Dr. Armand Burke, president of Soya Corp, says he can produce soya bean oil at less than one-third the cost of imported olive oil. He quotes the official European price of olive oil at around 72 cents a pound, compared with 22 cents for soya oil.

TEXAS MAN WANTS ONLY A MODEL T; PAYS $995

By The United Press

HOUSTON, TEX, Nov. 5—The used car market in Houston rode along in high gear yesterday when a 62-year-old farmer counted out $995 in cash for a 1927 model T.

R. L. Thacker of San Augustine first noticed the car in a classified advertisement in a Houston newspaper. He said he had been looking for a model T for three years, "Ever since my last one wore out." And his last one was a 1910 job

"Sure it was pretty high," Thacker said, "but I wanted a model T and I had the money. That's all there was to it"

He explained he never drove anything but a model T in his life

"I don't go for all these wheel shifts and things like that, and I don't guess I'd know how to drive anything else if I wanted to," the well-to-do farmer added.

The operators of the used car lot said it was one of the quickest sales on record.

The 1927 model T had an original cost of $520 F.O B Detroit

It is estimated that it costs about 1 7 cents a mile to operate a motor car on paved roads but 2 9 cents on dirt roads.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

"IT means nothing of the kind," I told Noel Veritzen sharply. "There is no thought of you or Mary's being present at Olina's wedding to Georges."

In a trice, his expression changed from dolor to dark, ugly suspicion.

"Why is that" he asked. "Does Olina or Georges—object to our being there? And if so, why?"

"It is very hard to be patient with you, Noel," I told him, my patience oozing from every pore. "Really, you get the most ridiculous ideas into your head of anybody I know!"

I ignored the crimson that mounted to his hair, and went on rapidly.

"Olina knows nothing of the plan to have you and Mary stay away from the wedding. When Georges heard of it, he made no comment, for there was none to make. When my father asked my opinion about Mary's attending the wedding, I told him the truth—that she was too recently over her illness for any undue excitement; that she had much better stay quietly at the hotel."

His face, which had begun to clear, darkened again at my last words.

"Will you tell me, Aunt Madge," he asked, "why you should think that Mary would be unduly excited over Georges' wedding?"

I minced no words in my reply to him, for I was so furious I had trouble controlling my voice.

"Your question is an offense not only to me, but to your wife," I declared; "nevertheless, I shall answer it"

"No, no don't! Please forgive me!" he cried, but I pretended not to hear his protest

"Neither I, nor anyone else, has any idea that the wedding of Georges and Olina would mean anything special to Mary," I said. "But any festivity is unusual excitement. I simply decided, without consulting Mary, or you, that she should not take the journey to Sag Harbor and join in the wedding celebration. I see that I was wrong. I will leave this entirely in your hands. Tell Mary this story yourself—I wash my hands of the job—and consult with her as to her wishes and the advisability of your going."

If there was a color of the spectrum that I did not flit over Noel's face as I made my vindictive little speech I do not know which one was omitted. And when I had finished, instead of being angry, he was so deflated my heart began to soften toward him.

Before I could prevent his action, he was on his knees by the side of my chair, and had seized both my hands.

"Please forgive me, Aunt Madge!" he begged. "I know I have acted abominably, but you cannot know how the very thought of that—that popinjay—twists all sane thoughts out of my head.

"But do not punish me so terribly," he pleaded. "I simply cannot tell Mary about Georges' coming back, and about this wedding I want her to know all about it from you before I see her again Won't you please do that for me?"

I tried to harden my heart, but the real suffering in his eyes was too much for me.

"I will tell her, yes," I agreed, "but I cannot promise to do it before you see her again. She is asleep now, and probably will not awaken much before breakfast time tomorrow, If I have the opportunity, I will tell her the story before you see her at breakfast. If I have not told her, I will let you know before you go in to breakfast, and then you can keep your own knowledge to yourself until you see her at night. By that time she will know all about it."

"Thank you, and bless you!" he said fervently. "I do not deserve such kindness."

In Plain Words

by James Marlow

WASHINGTON (This hits you.)

A special committee of experts, almost all businessmen, thinks taxes can be cut next year.

(A word of caution: What they say and what will happen are two different things. So don't build false hopes.)

But what they say will be argued in congress. And the Republican-controlled congress seems certain to pass a tax-cut bill of some kind.

(Then it will be up to President Truman to decide whether he'll kill such a bill with a veto in 1948 as he did with two such bills in 1947.)

The special committee reported yesterday after months of work. In brief, it said:

The government's whole tax set-up needs overhauling but income taxes should be cut right away.

SIMPLER SAID THAN done. Before income taxes can be cut, there are problems. Roughly, here's a bird's eye view of them:

Last year—the fiscal year ending June 30, 1947—the cost of running the government was $42,500,000,000 and the government took in, mostly through taxes, about $43,200,000,000.

This year—the fiscal year ending June 30, 1948—the cost of runing the government is figured right now to be about $37,000,000,000 and the government expects to collect about $41,600,000,000.

So the cost of running the government dropped from 1947 to 1948.

(The amount which is the difference between government costs and money taken in taxes can be used by the government in paying off some of the national debt, which is about $259,000,000,000.

(That debt is money the government borrowed to keep running, mostly in war-time. The interest on the debt costs about $5,000,000,000 a year.)

The special tax committee thinks maybe the cost of running the government can be reduced from $37,000,000,000 to perhaps $25,000,000,000 or even $20,000,000,000.

CAN IT? CONGRESS will have to decide that. And if that's possible, how much can taxes be reduced? Congress will have to decide that, too.

But reduced when? In the fiscal year which starts July 1, 1948, and ends June 30, 1949?

If the cost of running the government can be cut from the present $37,000,000,000 to $25,000,000,000, then the government might be able to cut taxes. But how much?

Before that can be done, congress will have to consider:

How much it should leave—between running the government and taxes collected — for paying off some of the national debt and maybe several millions of dollars for the Marshall plan.

(THAT'S SECRETARY OF State Marshall's plan for helping Europe. Sixteen European countries figure they'll need about $22,000,000,000 in outside aid, most from us, in the next four years.)

So congress' problem will be to cut the cost of running the government, cut taxes, have money to pay off some of the national debt and still have money to put into the Marshall plan.

(One member of the 10-man special committee, Matthew Woll, a big chief in the AFL, disagrees with the committee on a number of its ideas about cutting taxes at this time.)

DEMOCRATS GAIN KENTON CONTROL

Special to The Star

KENTON, Nov. 5—A 10-year control of municipal administration in Kenton by the Republican party was ended in the election Tuesday of Loucks B. Brown (D), who defeated Roy A. Martin (R). The vote was 1,894 for Brown and 1,481 for Martin.

All special levies and issues in Kenton and voting districts in Harding county were passed. The special levy in Kenton to acquire and construct a sewage disposal works and system of sanitary sewers 2.35 mills for 20 years, ($280,000) passed with a percentage of 74.2, the vote being yes 2,310, and no 893. The other Kenton special levy, a renewal of four and a half mills and an increase of one half mill for the Kenton city school district, passed with 67.8 per cent. The votes were 2,108 for, and 994 against.

One other issue, the local optional issue for McGuffey, which resulted in the approval of the question to permit the sale of beer by holders of C or D permits, was passed by a single vote, 102 to 101. Five other local optional questions involving the sale of intoxicating liquor, wines, etc., were defeated by a small majority.

Municipal elections in Hardin county village were marked by two "freak" returns at Ada and Patterson. At Ada, in the office of mayor, Austin Gant (R-Inc.) received only one less vote than his opponent Kenneth Preston (D). Preston polled 573 to 572. At Patterson, C. R. Elected to the Kenton school board were Eugene Sheldon with 2,220 votes, and Keith Ehresman with 1,811 votes. They were unopposed for reelection.

Winners in the Kenton election were:

Roving Reports

NEW YORK

NOBODY saw the old man fall.

He tumbled down the last few stairs and lay, stretched silent and meager on the narrow platform of the Wall Street subway station.

It was the noon hour, and people are in a hurry then along the street where the world buys and sells. Some men stepped over the small sprawled figure and others walked to the other side of the stairway, pausing only for a quick glance.

A subway track walker and a young well-dressed man who looked like a broker saw the old man. The subway worker bent and lifted the old man to a sitting posture. The well-dressed young man, heedless of a pool of spreading blood, knelt to feel the feeble pulse.

"I can hardly feel it."

SOMEONE RAN UPSTAIRS to the change booth to summon help.

The other two men gently laid the old man back down and put a newspaper under his head. The color drained out of his wrinkled face like a thermometer, leaving the skin as colorless as his white mustache and thin hair.

"What happened—he fall?" said a bystander, and climbed on up the stairs when the young man nodded his head.

The subway worker and the well-dressed young man watched alone as a glaze came slowly over the blue eyes looking up from the platform. The mouth gradually gaped open as slack facial muscles let go forever.

"This man is dead," said the subway worker.

"Yes, there's no more pulse," agreed the young man. "All we can do is pray."

SO THERE ON THE station platform with cars coming and going, carrying heedless hundreds on the errands of life, the young man knelt by the side of death and lifted up his voice:

"Our father, who art in heaven . . ."

The grimy subway worker knelt, too, and joined him:

"Hallowed be thy name . . ."

Frightened women moved away from the scene, but half a dozen men halted. At first self consciously, they took off their hats, and knelt on one knee—with the other leg ready to be gone.

"Thy kingdom come, thy will be done . . ." the young man said.

And the others picked up the ancient chant:

"On earth as it is in heaven . . . give us this day our daily bread . . ." the voices became fuller.

The young man led them then in a "Hail Mary" and then they chanted after him . . .

"Glory be to the father, and to the son, and to the holy ghost. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen."

SOMEONE SAID, "God rest his soul." And as if that were a signal to release them, the crowd melted back into the daily routine of their lives.

But the two original samaritans—the trackwalker and the young man—covered up the dead man's face and stayed to keep him company, while subway cars rumbled past in strange requiem.

Death isn't always as lonely as life in the endless flow of Manhattan.

Upper Sandusky's Rams Need Carey Win for Perfect Season

For the second time in three years, the Upper Sandusky Rams will risk an unblemished record on the Carey gridiron when the two teams meet Friday night in a classic battle for the Wyandot County Cup.

In 1945, both the Rams and the Carey Blue Devils went into the season finale undefeated. The Rams came out on top, 13-0.

This year the Rams have won eight straight and will go into the battle as favorites. The Blue Devils' have won five and lost three.

Upper Sandusky won the Northern Ohio league championship, and Carey finished second in the Mid-State league. (The Blue Devils could end up in a first place tie with Marion St. Mary if Mt. Gilead beats the Irish Friday night.)

Rams Will Have Trouble

But even though favored, the Rams will no doubt have plenty of trouble maintaining their perfect record. Thye've had to pull games out of the fire four times this season, and the high-scoring Carey outfit has been red hot when they-re on.

The game will be the season finale for both teams.

Other teams ending their season Friday night are Bucyrus, Kenton, Richwood, Crestline, and Marysville.

The Bucyrus Redmen will go to Mansfield Madison with a three-win, three-loss, one-tie record. Bellevue swamped the Redmen, 27-6, last week while Mansfield scuttled Delaware, 37-18.

Kenton entertains Bellefontaine. The Wildcats have won four, lost three, and tied one. Last week they fell to Bexley, 26-12.

Richwood gridders close with Sunbury. The Richwood Tigers have a .500 record with three wins, three losses, one tie. A win at Sunbury would put them in the above-average class.

Last N.O.L. Game

Crestline entertains Shelby in the last Northern Ohio league left on the schedule. At the present time, Crestline stands third in the league and Shelby sixth. If the underdog Whippets take Crestline they will move into fifth place, but Crestline's league standing won't be jeopardized.

Marysville entertains a traditional opponent in Westerville The Monarchs have a 3-2-3 season record.

The Cardington Pirates go to West Jefferson, but it won't be their last game. They close the season Nov. 14 with Mt. Gilead. The Pirates won from Bellville, 14-6, last week while West Jefferson staggered under a 32-0 drubbing by Richwood. Richwood.

Galion goes to Ashland Saturday for their last game. Galion finally came to life last week and blanked Willard, 24-0, but the Ashland team rates as heavy favorites, having won seven and lost one. The Galion Tigers have won two and lost six.

FESLER REVAMPS OHIO STATE LINE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5—A revamped Buckeye line appeared in the making today as Coach Wes Fesler sought to strengthen Ohio State for Saturday's Big Nine grid tangle with Northwestern.

Ray Depierro moved into Capt. Bob Jabbusch's left guard spot, Dic O'Hanlon, a former guard, was given a tackle post and promised a starting berth if he learns the assignment. End Dick Shannon also began working at tackle while Bob Dorsey moved up to second string end behind Jimmy Hague.

Fesler drove the Bucks through a long offensive scrimmage, almost ignoring defense work.

Several new plays went into the tactical manual on the basis of scout Jack Graf's report on the Northwestern defense.

Pandel Savic was back at quarterback after Billy Doolittle started against Indiana, but Fesler indicated O.S.U. spectators will see all the signal-callers.

Trainer Ernie Biggs indicated halfbacks Bob Brugge and Dean Sensanbaugher would be ready for some action Saturday, but Fesler was not optimistic. Both missed the Saturday battle with Indiana.

Man O'War Buried; 2,000 Attend Funeral

By The Associated Press

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 5—Man O'War, eulogized as "truly a memorable horse," was buried late yesterday afternoon at owner Samuel D. Riddle's Faraway Farm where thousands had visited the famed thoroughbred racer and sire.

About 2,000 persons attended the final rites for the winner of 20 races and loser of one, to a horse aptly named Upset. Nine speakers extolled the feats of "Big Red," who died of a heart attack Saturday. He was 30 years old.

Ira Dryman, blue grass horseman, the master of ceremonies, declared "the death of Man O'War marks the end of an era in American turf and breeding history. He broke many records as a race horse, was without parallel as a sire and lived longer, by far, than does the average horse."

Man O'War's age was equivilant to 106 years of human life.

Four male keglers of the Ohio Public Service league at the Palace Recreation Center Monday night topped the 200 mark. L. H. Larsen led the four with a 244, next was J. Miley's 220, R. Bond's 214, and J. G. Lytle with 205. J. Lytle also took the series total with a 543.

In the women's division of the Service league at the Palace, Dorothy Rhinehart, consistent weekly leader, stepped from the alleys with the high single game honors, annexing a 165. Ruth Kersey came next with 152. Eve Applegett, another leader every week, came back again this week to take the series total high with a good 437. Dorothy Rhinehart kept close pace with a 420.

The Monday Nite Ladies League was again represented with high scores for their efforts at the Palace Monday night, no less than 19 feminine rollers topping the 150 mark. Highest was a 172 chalked up by R. Bryant. P. Snyder's 491 was tops for the series total.

At the Marion Recreation Center Monday night, only one league was represented as the Home Bowling league had the alleys all to themselves. Seven keglers topped the 200 mark and leading the pack was a 233 high single game rolled by Snell that was uncontested. No series total was reported.

GRID SCIENTIST BLAIK SENSES IRISH SPIRIT

"Notre Dame's Ready," Says Army Mentor.

By The Associated Press

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 5—When a coach who is celebrated as the cool, calculating master of scientific football begins talking about what he can "sense" on a campus nearly a thousand miles away, then you can be sure that some big game, such as Army vs. Notre Dame, is coming up.

It's not just a gag that you visit West Point during the week before this annual battle, which will be joined next Saturday for the last time, to hear about the Notre Dame team and you get your information about Army in South Bend, Ind.

Army Coach Earl Blaik went a little further than usual in this respect yesterday when he drew a long-range comparison of the spirit of the squads and student bodies in addition to comparing their manpower. It was a rather gloomy picture either way, although Blaik smilingly insisted he wasn't shedding any tears.

"I don't think our approach to the game is anything like it is in South Bend—from what I have heard and read about how they feel out there," Blaik said. "I think the Navy game still is the most important to our boys, though in the past they often have risen to great heights for Notre Dame and then have fallen off for the rest of the season."

If you approach the game by "factual thinking" according to Blaik's theory, the only conclusion is that Notre Dame will win. If you take another approach and count on some emotional surge to bring an Army victory, you have to count on something that the Irish aren't expecting—just as Army really wasn't expecting to be "hooked" by Columbia.

"No matter how ready we are, they're probably more ready," Blaik insisted. "I don't sense here what I think I sense from out there."

ALL-AMERICA FUTURE BOOK

By FRANK ECK

AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Columbia university followers are booming Bill Swiacki, Lion end from Southbridge, Mass., for All-America honors as a result of his acrobatic pass catching.

It was the work of the Columbia senior that enabled an underdog Lion eleven to record one of the greatest football upsets of all time when Army, after going through 32 games, three full seasons and half of another without tasting defeat, bowed to Columbia by 21-20.

Coach Lou Little thinks Swiacki is the greatest of all collegiate pass catchers and rates only Jim Benton of the professional Los Angeles Rams of the National league above him.

Swiacki caught nine passes against Army. That is not a record, however, and you had to see this fellow in action to appreciate him. Half the passes were caught with Swiacki diving and grabbing the pigskin just off the grass. Army, attempting to stop him, sometimes had two men defending against the Gene Rossides to Swiacki forward combination but the Columbia end was a genius at faking and diving for the ball.

Swiacki's ability to make sensational catches is no mystery, for he was catcher and captain of Columbia's baseball team last spring. He is a wonder at gathering in errant pitches on the diamond or the gridiron.

If he makes the All-America team this season he will be the first to gain that honor for Columbia since 1942 when Passing Paul Governali made it as a halfback.

Major League Draft in Cincy Monday Promises To Bring Up Flock of Hopefuls

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, No. 5—The 1947 major league baseball draft which gets under way next Monday at the annual selection meeting in Cincinnati, promises to bring up a flock of hopefuls comparable to last year's "take of 20 players which cost 11 big league club owners an aggregate sum of $184,000.

Although the majority of the 8,000 minor league players—classes AAA through D—eligible for the draft are either grizzled veterans who have long ago outlived their usefulness in the big time or those who have been brought up before and found wanting, this year's crop contains some fine prospects, if they are to be judged by their past season performance.

Among the most likely to get the call appears to be Cliff Daper, Brooklyn-owned catcher who batted .291 and drove in 105 runs while working in 136 games for Mobile in the Southern association.

Another almost certain to attract attentions is Max West, former Boston Brave and Cincinnati Red outfielder, who led the Pacific Coast league in home runs and runs batted in and was selected as the loop's most valuable player. West, only 31, slammed 43 home runs for San Diego, the most any coast league player has hit since 1935.

Another draft eligible who received the M.V.P. award of his circuit was Steve Gerkin, 29-year-old relief pitcher of Minneapolis who was the iron man of the American association. Gerkin, who still winces every time he is reminded of his awful 0-12 record he compiled with the Philadelphia Athletics in 1945, won 10 and lost two for the Millers, but that is only half the story. He appeared in 83 official games to shatter all existing records for pitchers. He also pitched in three games that were washed off the record by rain, took part in four out of seven playoff games and hurled 10 exhibition games to make it exactly 100 games that he pitched in.

Class AAA players will cost $10,000, class AA $7,500, class A $6,000, class B $4,000, class C $2,500 and class D $2,000. The St. Louis Browns, last place club of the American league in the '47 campaign, will get first pick. Second choice will go to the Philadelphia Phillies who finished in a last place tie with Pittsburgh but won the second place choice in a special drawing with the Pirates.

Ravenna Jumpers Know Way Around Obstacles

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—Jumpers from the Ravenna, O., stables of Sterling Smith are competing for the frist time in the National Horse show at Madison Square Garden but their initial performances indicated that they know their way around an obstacle course.

Two of the 10 events in which points are scored toward the open jumping championship of the show were held yesterday and Smith's horses won them both.

George Braun, who rode Smith's Happy Landing to victory in the opening jumping competition in the afternoon, also was in the saddle on Koper Queen, who finished fourth in the same event.

Then Braun returned last night to win the "knock down and out" jumping contest on Sun Beau, a nine-year-old chestnut gelding from the Smith establishment. The twin triumphs gave Happy Landing and Sun Beau five points each.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

AP Sports Writer

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 5—The rain, dripping past the windows of Coach Earl (Red) Blaik's office, furnished a subject for speculation about Saturday's Army-Notre Dame game besides threatening to hamper Army's preparations . . . Indoors, Blaik refused to supply an accompaniment of tears, although it's a well-known fact that this year's team resembles the "Black Knights" of the past three seasons no more than the color of Blaik's hair resembles red . . . "I wouldn't be surprised if it rains Saturday," said Earl. "I hope not. I always like to see the customers have a good time."

Although Blaik insists that 1947 "definitely is our down year," he doesn't appear too gloomy about the future . . . Augie Dielens, who may do a lot of passing against Notre Dame, is coming along well as quarterback understudy to Arnold Galiffa. And both these youngsters are good enough that Bill Gustafson is definitely a halfback now . . . Davis Parris, who played fullback at high school in Whitewright, Tenn., "will be a pretty good end in another year" and Bennie Davis is going to be a great tackle some day. Bill Yeoman already is 'a' better center than Jim Enos." . . . These boys all are in the class of 1950.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS GET NEW MANAGER

James "Zach" Taylor Succeeds Ousted "Muddy" Ruel.

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS. Nov. 5—The St. Louis Browns had a new manager today—James Wren (Zach) Taylor—to succeed Herald (Muddy) Ruel whose work was called disappointing by club officials.

Taylor, 49, comes to the Browns from the Pittsburgh Pirates where he was a coach last season. He had served with St. Louis previously. He had spent nearly 20 years in organized baseball.

Club President Richard C. Muckerman, in announcing Ruel's dismissal, said that Muddy's contract, which had one more year to run, would be paid in full.

It was the second consecutive time the Browns have hired a manager for two years and fired him after one. Luke Sewell was relieved shortly before the end of the 1946 season. less than half way through his two-year contract.

Ruel, 51, resigned as assistant to Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler to take over the managership. He took issue with a statement by Muckerman that although the club finished last this year, material on hand was sufficient for a first division team. Ruel said he was "stunned" by the action, and added:

"Mr. Muckerman said he was disappointed in the showing of the club, and disappointed in my work. Well, I couldn't deny that the showing of the club disappointed all of us after we started the season in the cellar and trailed in that position throughout the American league race. I could not agree with the club owner on the second point—my record.

"I fell heir to a seventh place team, and I feel certain that material was not on hand to improve the Browns' position."

PRESSES BATTLE IN GALION POWER PLAN

Special to The Star

GALION, Nov. 5—At Tuesday night's regular meeting of city council, Robert L. Moulton, acting city solicitor, was served with a notice by Attorney Kenneth M. Petri, requesting the city solicitor to file an action on behalf of the city, restraining the purchase of a new diesel generating unit for the Galion municipal light and power plant.

Legality of the purchase of the diesel of which there has been some question will be studied by Moulton, he said.

Council also authorized the city solicitor to draw up the necessary legislation to pay Police Chief James L. Walker and the regular patrolmen of the police department, a $50 bonus, each for extra hours during the labor dispute at the North Electric Manufacturing Co.

Georgia Tech's Bobby Davis Named Lineman of the Week

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—Bobby Davis, tackle on Georgia Tech's unbeaten and untied eleven, today was selected football lineman of the week in The Associated Press poll by a narrow margin over Dan Dworsky, Michigan center.

Daavis, a 225-pounder who stands 6 ft. 4 inches, played 58 of the 60 minutes against Duke on Saturday and dominated the line play. He led the attack, which threw back four Duke threats, two of them within five-yard line.

"Davis certainly was an All-America against Duke," declared his coach, Bobby Dodd. "His tackle play was the finest I ever saw in any game."

"A truly great tackle," conceded Wallace Wade, Duke coach, while Ed Danforth, of the Atlanta Journal, led the praise parade from sports writers who saw the game.

"He did more than I ever saw one tackle do in any game," asserted Danforth. "Twice he caught reverses moving away from him behind the line of scrimmage. It may be a long time before a southern football field sees his like again."

Just as Davis' fine play helped Georgia Tech beat Duke by 7-0 so did Dworsky's performance against Illinois play a large part in keeping Michigan unbeaten and untied.

"By his performance against Illinois, Dworsky stamped himself of true All-America caliber," commented Bob Hooey of the Ohio State Journal. "On numerous occasions he was a vital cog in stopping the Illinois attack within sight of the Wolverine goal."

Other outstanding linemen this week were Ike Owens, Illinois end, praised by his coach, Ray Eliot, as the "best end I've seen in two years;" Steve Suhey, Penn State guard, regarded by Coach Bob Higgins as the "best guard in the country;" Bill "Earthquake" Smith, North Carolina tackle; Harold Kilman, Texas Christian tackle; and Paul Cleary, Southern California end.

Denny Shute, Ed Furgol Lead North-South Open

By The Associated Press

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 5—The stage was set for a scramble to rival any the North and South Open Golf tournament has witnessed in its 45-year history as the second round began today with a two-stroke blanket covering the top 11 players.

As the second 18 holes of the 72-hole, $7,500 event started over the No. 2 course, Denny Shute, the fit and fortyish Akron, O., professional, and Ed Furgol of Detroit, less than three years out of the amateur ranks, were leading the procession with two-under-par 70's, one stroke ahead of six 71 shooters. Three more were in the thick of things with par 72's.

Atlanta amateur Gene Dahlbender followed a 69 Monday qualifying round performance with a 71 to lend authority to Walker-Cupper Dick Chapman's prediction that he would be a threat in this tournament. Frank Stranahan, highly regarded Toledo, O., amateur, had a 74.

MRS. JOHNSON HOSTESS TO CALVARY BIBLE CLASS

Mrs. Dora Johnson was hostess to the Emma Berger Bible class of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church Thursday evening at her home at 197 South State street. An announcement was made concerning a special class project which the members have had for the past several years, that of raising funds for new carpet in the church sanctuary. It was reported that the carpet had been purchased and was being laid.

Rev. R. W. Faulkner, pastor of the church, conducted devotions on the subject "Stewardship," and Mrs. A. L. Wood and Mrs. H. O. Rueger sang "The Old Rugged Cross." Herbert Johnson, a guest, entertained during the social hour with impersonations of the old philosopher, Uncle Josh, and the schoolboy, Jim. Refreshments in keeping with the Halloween season were served by the committee in charge.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnson of Widen, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Johnson of Akron, sons of the hostess and their wives, Mrs. Dorothy Scranton of Galion, daughter of the hostess, a granddaughter, Mrs. Cyril Blow and children, Phyllis Ann, Peggy and Barbara, of Marion, Mrs. Bess Hasselkus of Toledo, and Rev. and Mrs. Faulkner.
